European Health Management Conference

Join the Premier Event for Health Management Professionals in Europe!

The European Health Management Conference is the premier event for health management professionals, policymakers, researchers, and educators across Europe. Each year, the conference brings together a diverse community dedicated to improving health and health management. The EHM Conference is an unparalleled platform for sharing knowledge, fostering collaboration, and driving innovation in health management.

Key Themes and Highlights

The European Health Management Conference addresses the most pressing challenges and opportunities in health management through dynamic themes that evolve each year. Here's what you can expect:

Innovative Models of Care:

Explore cutting-edge approaches to healthcare delivery and management that address the evolving needs of populations. Learn from successful case studies and engage with thought leaders on implementing new models of care.

Digital Transformation:

Understand the impact of digital health technologies on patient care, health systems, and healthcare management. Sessions cover topics like eHealth, AI, big data, and the digitalisation of health services.

Evidence-Based Management:

Discover the latest evidence-based practices that drive better decision-making in health management. Engage with research findings and practical examples that enhance the quality and efficiency of healthcare delivery.

Sustainability and Resilience:

Gain insights into building sustainable and resilient health systems. Discussions focus on environmental sustainability, economic viability, and strategies for managing health crises.

Leadership and Governance:

Enhance your leadership skills and learn about effective governance models. Sessions include best practices in health leadership, policy development, and stakeholder engagement.

Integrated Care and Patient-Centeredness:

Explore strategies for integrating care across health services and placing patients at the center of care. Learn from successful implementations of integrated care pathways and patient empowerment initiatives.

Networking and Collaboration

The European Health Management Conference offers unmatched networking opportunities with over 500 delegates from various sectors, including healthcare providers, academic institutions, governmental bodies, and non-governmental organisations. Engage in interactive workshops, focus sessions, and social events designed to foster collaboration and knowledge exchange.

Who Should Attend?

- Health management professionals
- Researchers and academics
- Healthcare providers and administrators
- Digital health innovators
- Policymakers and government representatives
- Non-governmental organisations and advocacy groups

Each EHMC has built upon the previous year's insights, focusing on critical aspects of health management, from evidence-based practices and digital transformation to sustainability and integrated care, fostering a collaborative environment for healthcare professionals across Europe to share knowledge and innovate for the future.

“The diversity of participants and the quality of discussions make European Health Management Conference the highlight of my professional year.”
- Prof. Rui Nunes, University of Porto, Portugal

“The focus on evidence-based management and digital transformation has given me new tools and ideas to implement in my organisation.”
- Helen Pardoe, Homerton University Hospital, UK
